EDITORIAL FLINGS

Don't flout the flirty flapper, men, You're not so doggone good, You'd flirt and flap and flitter, too, Confound you, if you could!

My love is like the red, red, rose Who takes a drugstore header, Dabs at her face, and goodness knows, Comes out a good deal redder.

If plumbers object to jokes about the high cost of plumbing, let it be admitted for the sake of peace and good-will among men that the cost of plumbing is no longer a joke. It's a tragedy to many.

Moonshine, women and gasoline, to say nothing about other things, is bad business, and is a combination that nobody has beaten yet. It is especially bad for married men, and yet a lot of the transgression idiots have not learned it.

"Mrs. Wiggs" declares that if you look about you can find somebody worse off than you are. With a coal strike and a railroad strike in the way, the American factory owner should consider the desperate situation of the Turkish Pashas as the result of the strike of the harem guards in Constantinople, which "leaves some of the finest harems in the city absolutely unprotected."

The Pike County News, which says, "the bride and bridegroom each seemed to be attuned to the perfect time of the wedding march," pays a handsome compliment that borders upon flattery, but when The News says "the bride was at tired in a lovely Nile green taffeta and lace combination," the guess-work is 'impertinent or the reporter's information was singularly incompetent."

In these hot, sticky days Stoner Creek is the Mecca of hundreds seeking relief from the heat. Clad in bathing suits they disport themselves in the water like the fabled mermaids and mermen, and have a god time. Some of the favorite bathing places are the boat landing on Stoner avenue, the rocky beach near the pump station, and the gravel beach near Trundle's gap several miles upstream. Other places extensively patronized by the bathers are in the vicinity of the old Blue Grass League ball park, and at a number of places on Houston Creek.

Query—Who started the report that City Health Officer A. H. Keller is an authority on bees and bugs?
In the last few weeks Dr. Keller has been called on the phone by different parties, who wanted to know if he could suppress a swarm of bees on their neighbor's premises, with a tendency to go visiting. Another message from other sources asked the genial official if the City Health department could get out an injunction against a visitation of bugs, which seemed to have camped on the party's premises. Dr. Keller assured his questioners that the Health Officer had no power or authority to squelch bees or bugs and that there were some kinds of "bugs" in Paris no power could squelch. Therefore, if citizens are troubled with bees or bugs they cannot hope for help from the Health department.

Man born of woman is of few days and full of trouble. His tax rate having been advanced in town, he removes to the suburbs and speedily he is annexed to the city and his tax rate again raised.

THE RATTLESNAKE AND THE SCAB

(By Ralph Casey)
A "scab" went out to work one day When the gang was cutting right of way.
And on the side he chanced to take Lay a great big, ugly rattlesnake.
When he saw the snake coiled on the ground, His knees got weak and he started down.
He grabbed his hat and he started to run,
But his knees got weak on the son-of-a-gun.
He held his hat and he held his knees,
And his pants legs shook like the leaves on trees.
But just as the rattlesnake started to grab
He saw the man was a dirty "scab."
The snake drew back in deep disgust
And said: "Pass this guy up I must.
I'm disappointed as I can be.
But a scab is lower down than me." And then the snake to the "scab" did say:
"For Heaven's sake please go away, I'll ruin my reputation, too, If people see me here with you.
I know I'm displeased, that's true.
But still not half as much as you.
And I'd rather be a snake by far Than be a scab like some men are."

RULES RADIO CAN'T STEAL NEWS MATTER

Postmaster-General Kellaway, of Great Britain, has given notice that the property rights of press associations and newspapers in news which may be open to appropriation by wireless broadcast stations, must be protected. He says he is in favor of strict regulations and control in such matters, and has decided to call a conference of broad-cast firms and representatives of press agencies and newspapers with a view to reaching a solution of this much vexed problem.

"How far the lifting of copyright and non-copyright matter from the newspapers and press associations for wireless use may be permitted," said Mr. Kellaway, "is a most important question. The representatives of newspaper enterprises have pointed out that it would be intolerable to allow broadcasting firms to lift the matter indiscriminately from the papers and spread it to the public. They have rightly said that news was not dead throughout the country for a considerable time after its publication, and that their property rights in this news must be safe-guarded."

The Postmaster-General said he was impressed with the arguments of the newspapers and press associations, and was hopeful it soon would be possible to issue regulations protecting their rights. "I see no reason why some agreement cannot be arrived at between the newspapers and the broadcasting firms," he added, "although I admit there is cogency in the suggestion that even in regard to non-copyright information the broadcasting plan will set up a new form of competition with the news agencies and newspapers."

A KENTUCKY POET

(Frankfort State Journal)

The London Bookman pays tribute to the poems of the sea which Cale Young Rice, of Kentucky, has written and asks what other living poet has equaled them?

It is well-known that a poet, like a prophet, has more honor abroad than at home. Kentuckians never have appreciated Cale Young Rice as Englishmen have. But that is because, no doubt, the detached point of view, and the confidence, of English literary critics, permits them to speak frankly and fearlessly about the high quality of Rice's work. His neighbors here in Kentucky, afraid of seeming to overestimate "home talent," and not confident as critics, are conservative.
They observe that Mr. Rice does not wear his hair down his back or present in other respects the picture of no mere mortal, but genius class-conscious. They are a little afraid to admit that so far as they are able to judge his poetry is as well done as that of any other poet of his generation, or of the preceding century. They are not going to be caught boasting of a fellow Kentuckian who is destined to live in letters.

That is not surprising. American critics—vocational ones—however, should not be afraid of their opinions. It is surprising that London rather than New York "discovered" Cale Young Rice and that a dozen years after his discovery by the best London critics New York recognizes him somewhat less generously than London.

Short-Sighted Policy.

If friends to a government forbear their assistance, they put it in the power of a few desperate men to ruin the welfare of those who are superior to them in strength and interest.—Addison.

BOY SCOUT SHOWS HOW TO BE COURTEOUS

(Charleston, W. Va., Gazette)
He was just a youngster, about 12 years old, but he had learned to "be prepared" because he was a Boy Scout. He was also trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous and kind, and he had done his "good turn."

One afternoon on Capitol street, when traffic was a bit congested, motorists were hurrying, some with no apparent thought of pedestrians, others on pleasure bent, and the streets were pretty well crowded.

A small group of pedestrians were waiting at the white-line markings on the curb, for a lull in the traffic when they might cross the street. At an unannounced moment they all hurried across the paved street, with the exception of an aged woman, who was apparently afraid to venture forth alone.
She was carrying two parcels, one a box of some kind, the other probably groceries. She looked worried and stood on the curb, apparently debating whether she could make the other side of the street in safety, when a Boy Scout, for the insignia on his center-peaked hat, indicated that he was a tenderfoot, hurried to her assistance, relieved her of the largest package, and holding her by one arm, assisted her across the thoroughfare. Safely across, he raised three fingers to his hat, the official Scout salute, handed back the package and was off in the crowd, merely one of his regular daily "good turns."

A STUDY IN AN AMERICAN DESERT

One of the direst parts of the United States is what is called the Papago country, a region including about 13,000 square miles in southwestern Arizona, so called because it was long ago inhabited by the Nomadic Papago Indians. This broad expanse of desert country, which lies between Gila River and the Mexican boundary, contains many groups of volcanic and other mountains separated by broad alluvial basins, which, though the rainfall is small and the temperature is high, sustains a scant growth of desert plants, including orchard-like groups of strange trees. There the bold slopes of the mountains, the general absence of watering places, and the peculiar forms of the vegetation impress the traveler strongly with the majesty and the mystery of the desert and excite his wonder as to the origin and history of the natural features.

A report on this region by Kirk Bryan, has just been published by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, as Bulletin 730-B, under the title "Erosion and Sedimentation in the Papago Country, Arizona." The report describes the Geology briefly as a setting for a consideration of the agencies that have produced the forms of the land and presents detailed conclusions as to the mode of origin of the desert landscape.
The paper is illustrated with diagrams, views, and maps and should be of interest to all students of topography and physiography, particularly those who are endeavoring to solve problems of erosion by wind and water in desert regions.

WE SECOND THE MOTION

The Elizabethtown News has started a protest against opening the country schools the first of July, for the reason that it is indefensibly cruelty to children to coop them up in a hot school house, often with no shade and insufficient ventilation. The country schools should not open until September, the same time as the city and town schools do, and the seven months term would then close about the first of April. A seven months' term, beginning July 1 would close about February 1, when the worst of the winter is usually over. If the boys and girls could have referendum on the question, we have no doubt they would prefer February and March to July and August as school months.

Ascribed to Unknown Race.

Pits or shallow wells for the collection of oil were found in the United States by the earliest explorers, and are believed to have been the work of that race which lived here before the Indians came from Asia or Northern Africa, or wherever they did come from. The belief is that these pits for oil were dug by those unknown and unaccountable people who built mounds in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, worked lead ores in Kentucky and mined copper in the Lake Superior region.

Cheerful Minds.

We are prone to think of contentment and happiness as things afar off which require much striving for, while all the time they may be close at hand if we will but keep our eyes and minds open. True entertainment means cheerfulness of mind and nothing can foster that more than little moments of happy contact with other cheerful minds.

Hedgehog and Porcupine.

The hedgehog and porcupine are entirely different families. The true hedgehog does not occur in this country. The porcupine is found in both the Old and New World. The old porcupine are terrestrial and fossorial, while the species found in this hemisphere are arboreal and not fossorial.

ALWAYS KEEPS IT ON HAND NOW SAYS ATKINSON

Akron Woman Was So Greatly Benefited By Tanlac She Wouldn't Think Of Being Without It.

"My wife is a strong believer in Tanlac; in fact, the medicine is a household treasure to us," said H.
H. Atkinson, 995 Chalkers street, Akron, O., valued employee of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

"For two years her stomach has badly out of order. After eating she complained of sharp pains, palpitation and shortness of breath. Her nerves were all upset and she never got any sound sleep at night. Medicine seemed to do her no good whatever and she got terribly weak and run down."

"But Tanlac began helping her almost from the start, and now it has set her right in every way. She keeps it in the house all the time ready for use and wouldn't be without it. It certainly has done her a world of good."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists. (adv)

SOARING SUGAR PRICES NEW MENACE

Increase in sugar prices, even larger increases than were asked last week, are looked for by local wholesale and retail grocers handling the product. Wholesale sugar has advanced from $6.10 and $6.20 a hundred pounds to $6.40 and $6.50 within the past few days and retail sugar has risen from seven and one-half cents a pound to eight cents within the same period.

Increases in the price of raw sugar, caused by strong domestic demand for canning purposes and by the demand for export, has been reflected in prices asked by refineries.

Only two or three refineries are accepting orders even at the market price which usually means that they are holding for anticipated higher prices, one local wholesaler says.
He looks for sugar to soar higher.

Another wholesaler believes the sugar market is temporarily firm but looks for prices to soar before long.

WOMEN'S WOES

Paris Women Are Finding Relief
at Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend, work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared hous-ands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. J. R. Moore, 133 E. Eighth street, Paris, says: "I was in bad shape with my kidneys. My back nearly killed me with pain. There was a steady, dull ache just over my kidneys and I was weak and miserable. I often had to let my housework go undone and I got so dizzy, black specks came before my eyes. My feet and ankles swelled.
I doctored for a time but got no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. My health was greatly improved in a short time and two boxes cured me. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Mil-

AMERICAN WOMAN HAS DRUG STORE IN MOSCOW

An American drug store presided over by an American woman is now dispensing drugs free of charge to the sick of Moscow. It is operated by the American Relief Administration, and the pharmacist is Caroline Klein Robbins, a graduate of the Brooklyn College of Pharmacy.

The new dispensary is receiving the heartiest support of the Moscow Board of Health. The reputable physicians of Moscow may send their patients to Miss Robbins, who will supply their needs free of charge, if they are not able to pay.
